OUR AUDIENCE

The Department for Behavioral Health, Developmental and Intellectual Disabilities Kentucky School Virtual Learning Series Planning Committee invites submissions of presentation proposals for the First Annual Kentucky School of Alcohol and Other Drug Studies Virtual Learning Series.

Series attendees will include primary care providers, hospitalists, substance use treatment staff, clinicians, harm reduction staff, prevention specialists, addiction educators, childcare providers, Family Resource & Youth Services Center staff, adult & juvenile justice staff, community-based services staff, public health staff, interested community members, and people with lived experience.

SEEKING DIVERSE SUBMISSIONS

To ensure diverse representation, we invite individuals and organizations from a variety of settings – including academia, non-profit, private sector, government agencies, healthcare systems, and provider agencies, as well as individuals with lived substance use experience – to submit proposals for presentations focused on enhancing the system of care for all Kentuckians. We are seeking current and relevant educational opportunities that may fall within these topic areas:

- Evidence-based & Promising Practices Across the Continuum & Lifespan
- Co-occurring Disorders
- Psychopharmacology/Pharmacotherapy
- Co-occurring Medical Issues/Integrated Care
- Harm Reduction
- Cultural Humility & Demographic-Specific Services
- Recovery & Peer Supports
- Workforce Development & Retention
- Process Addictions (e.g. gambling)

- Be thought-provoking and action-oriented;
- Utilize person-centered, recovery-focused language; and
