Dear Fellow Kentuckians:

Enclosed is the 2020 Guide to the Kentucky Open Records and Open Meetings Acts. I hope this updated guide is useful to citizens navigating the Acts and public officials who strive to comply with them.

In President Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, he spoke of our government as one that is "of the people, by the people, and for the people." This famous description underscores the importance of a government that is beholden to the people. For that to occur, government must be accessible to the people.

The Kentucky Open Records and Open Meetings Acts are two important means by which the citizens of this great Commonwealth can access their government, and government officials can maintain transparency for the citizens they serve. State law vests our office with the authority to oversee compliance with the Open Records and Open Meetings Acts to ensure Kentuckians have full access to their government. I take that responsibility seriously and will uphold the law without fear or favor.

As the Chief Law Officer for the Commonwealth, transparency is a top priority for our administration, and we will continue to work diligently each day to promote government transparency and accessibility for all Kentuckians.

Should you have any questions about this brochure, do not hesitate to contact our office by visiting <http://ag.ky.gov> or by calling (502) 696-5300.

Sincerely,

Daniel Cameron
ATTORNEY GENERAL

The Open Records and Open Meetings Acts:

Kentucky's laws on open records and open meetings affect every public agency. It is important that a public agency is prepared to deal with the array of legal questions that arise under those laws. This resource provides an analysis of the Open Records and Open Meetings Acts and is designed to assist the public in understanding the Open Meetings and Open Records Acts, and public officials in complying with the Open Meetings and Open Records Acts. It contains a description of the general requirements of the laws, the procedures that must be followed in implementing them, the exemptions a public agency may invoke in appropriate circumstances, and the role of the Attorney General in interpretation and enforcement. This resource also provides new information related to temporary changes to the Open Records and Open Meetings Acts under the state of emergency related to the novel coronavirus. Because the Attorney General's Office acts as an impartial tribunal in open records and open meetings appeals, we cannot advise the public, public agencies, and public officials on how to deal with specific situations.

The Open Records Act

In 1976, the General Assembly enacted the Open Records Act, KRS 61.870 to KRS 61.884, which establishes a right of access to public records. The General Assembly recognized that the free and open examination of public records is in the public interest. KRS 61.871. The General Assembly has also recognized that there is an essential relationship between proper records retention and management and records access. KRS 61.8715. All public records, whether they are stored electronically or in physical form, must be open for inspection unless the records are exempted by one or more of the sixteen exemptions found in the Act. All public agencies are required to make nonexempt public records available to any requester, and to provide suitable facilities for exercise of the right of inspection. A public agency may not consider the requester's identity or purpose in seeking access to public records. However, as will be explained, a public agency may require a person to declare whether the records will be used for a commercial purpose and, if so, the public agency is permitted to shift the costs of production onto the requester.

What are public records?

The Open Records Act provides an expansive definition for public records. They are “all books, papers, maps, photographs, cards, tapes, discs, diskettes, recordings, software, or other documentation regardless of physical form or characteristics.” KRS 61.870(2). The Open Records Act applies to any of the foregoing types of records that are “prepared, owned, used, in possession of or retained by a public agency.” KRS 61.870(2). The term “public records” includes all such records, even if the public records are not subject to inspection under one of the sixteen exemptions provided in KRS 61.878(1). Public records include:

- Emails, databases, and other electronic records.
- Records that are not maintained on the agency’s premises.
- “Booking photographs and photographic record of inmate,” which is defined under KRS 61.870(9) as “a photograph or image of an individual generated by law enforcement for identification purposes when the individual is booked into a detention facility as defined in KRS 520.010 or photograph and image of an inmate taken pursuant to KRS 196.099.” However, KRS 61.8746 prohibits a person from using a booking photograph in a publication, or posting it on a website of booking photographs or official inmate photographs, if removal of the photograph requires payment of a fee.

What is a public agency?

The Open Records Act only applies to “public agencies” as defined in KRS 61.870(1). Public agencies include:

- state and local government officers, departments, and legislative bodies;
- county and city governing bodies, school district boards, special district boards, and municipal corporations;
- state or local government agencies created by statute or other executive and legislative acts;
- bodies created by state or local authority in any branch of government;
- bodies that receive at least 25% of their funds from state or local authority, within any fiscal year, excluding funds derived from a state or local authority in compensation for goods or services that are provided by a contract obtained by a public procurement process;

- an entity where the majority of its governing body is appointed by a public agency;
- agencies created and controlled by public agencies; and
- interagency bodies of two or more public agencies.

What are the general requirements of the Open Records Act?

Suitable facilities. Each public agency must make suitable facilities available for persons who wish to exercise the right to inspect nonexempt public records. KRS 61.872(1).

Time for inspection. First, a person must describe the public records. Each public agency must permit inspection of nonexempt public records during the agency's regular office hours. KRS 61.872(3)(a). Agencies must, upon request, mail copies to a person whose residence or principal place of business is outside the county in which the records are located if the requester has "precisely described" the requested records and the records are readily available. KRS 61.872(3)(b). The agency may require advance payment of copying fees and the cost of mailing. KRS 61.872(3)(b).

Official custodian. Each public agency must appoint an official custodian of the agency's records. The official custodian is "the chief administrative officer or any other officer or employee of the agency who is responsible for the maintenance, care, and keeping of the agency's records, regardless of whether the records are in his or her actual personal custody and control." KRS 61.870(5).

Rules and regulations. Each public agency must adopt rules and regulations in conformity with the requirements of the Open Records Act. KRS 61.876. The rules must conform to the requirements of the Act and be displayed by the agency in a prominent location that is accessible to the public. KRS 61.876(2). The rules and regulations shall include:

- the principal office of the public agency and its regular office hours;
- the title and address of the official custodian of records;
- the fees charged for copies;
- the procedures to be followed in requesting public records, including whether the public records custodian requires an application and the method of delivery under KRS 61.872(2).

The uniform rules and regulations adopted by the Finance and Administration Cabinet, which are found at 200 KAR 1:020, may be adapted for each agency's use. This brochure also contains sample rules and regulations at page 34.

Special types of requests and additional considerations

Requests for information and compiling information or creating documents. Under the Act, a public agency is not obligated to provide information in response to a request for information (i.e. "How much are the city's employees paid?"). A public agency is not required to compile information or to create a record that does not already exist in response to an open records request. However, a public agency must honor a request for existing public records containing the information sought (i.e. "Please produce copies of the city's payroll records for May."), unless the requested records are exempt. Even if a public agency receives a request for information, the agency must respond in writing within three business days stating that the Act does not require agencies to compile information or create a record.

Requests for producing records in a special format. If a public agency is asked to produce a record in a format other than the format in which it maintains the record, or to tailor the format to meet a request, the agency may, but is not required to, provide the requested format. The agency may then recover staff costs as well as any actual costs it incurs. KRS 61.874(3).

Agencies should consider these additional factors:

- A requester must be permitted to conduct on-site inspection of records if he or she expresses a desire to do so, even if the public agency prefers to honor his or her request by delivery of copies through the mail.
- Public agencies must permit on-site inspection during regular office hours and no other restriction on hours of access may be imposed.
- The absence of the public agency's official records custodian does not extend the agency's response time; the agency should designate an acting custodian to ensure a timely response.
- Masking or redacting exempt information contained in an otherwise nonexempt public record is not equivalent to records creation. An agency is required to bear the costs and separate exempt information from non-exempt information and provide the requester the non-exempt portions of the records. KRS 61.878(4).

What is the procedure for inspecting a public record?

Request to inspect records. A request to inspect records must be made to the public agency's official custodian of records. The custodian may require that the request be in writing, signed by the requester, with his or her name printed legibly on it, describing the records to be inspected. KRS 61.872(2). An electronic signature is sufficient to meet this requirement. KRS 369.107. The custodian may require that the request be hand-delivered, mailed, sent via facsimile, or emailed to the agency. KRS 61.872(2). An agency that fails to establish the required method of transmission for accepting the request in its written policies required under KRS 61.876, may not impose ad hoc requirements.

Response to a request. The public agency must respond to the request in writing within three business days from the date it was received. If the request is denied, the response must include a statement of the specific exemption that authorizes the agency to withhold the record, and a brief explanation of how the exemption applies to the record withheld. KRS 61.880(1). The response must be issued by the official custodian or under his or her authority.

Application to wrong agency. If the public agency that receives the request does not have custody or control of the requested records, the agency must notify the requester and furnish the name and location of the official custodian of the appropriate agency's public records (i.e., a request for the minutes of a school board meeting that was submitted to the fiscal court). KRS 61.872(4).

Record not available. If the requested record is in active use, in storage, or not otherwise available, the public agency must notify the requester in writing and indicate a place, time, and date for inspection not to exceed three days from receipt of the request. KRS 61.872(5). If the record cannot be produced within three days, the agency must notify the requester in writing and provide a detailed explanation of the cause for the delay. The agency must also state the earliest date on which the record will be available.

Unreasonably burdensome request. The public agency may refuse to permit inspection, or mail copies, if the request places an unreasonable burden on the agency in producing records or if the custodian believes that repeated requests are intended to disrupt the agency's essential functions. KRS 61.872(6). Refusal for either of these reasons must be supported by clear and convincing evidence.

Copies of records. A requester has the right to obtain copies of all nonexempt public records upon payment of a reasonable fee, including postage where appropriate. The agency may require prepayment for copies of records. Nonexempt public records must be made available for copying in either standard electronic or standard paper format, depending on the request, if the agency maintains the records in both formats. KRS 61.874(2)(a). If the agency maintains the records in paper format only, it must make the records available in paper format. Agencies are not required to convert paper format records to electronic format.

The agency may prescribe a reasonable fee for making copies of nonexempt public records. The fee must not exceed the agency's actual costs of copying the record, including the cost of the medium on which it is copied and the cost of mechanically reproducing it, but not including staff costs. In general, ten cents per page has been deemed a reasonable fee for records in paper format. See, e.g., 200 KAR 1:020 § 3. The fee should be stated in the agency's rules and regulations.

Commercial use. The Open Records Act authorizes public agencies to impose a higher copying fee for requests made for a commercial purpose. KRS 61.874(4). This higher fee may include the costs associated with staff time spent processing the request, which ordinarily cannot be charged. KRS 61.874(4)(c). Commercial purpose is defined as "any use by which the user expects a profit either through commission, salary, or fee," but excludes print or electronic media and attorneys representing parties in litigation. KRS 61.870(4). The agency may require any requester to certify whether the records will be used for a commercial purpose prior to producing the records. KRS 61.874(4)(b). As explained on page 5, commercial use of booking photographs or official inmate photographs is prohibited where the commercial user publishes or posts the photographs and requires payment of a fee for removal of the photographs from the publication or website.

Online access. A public agency may provide online access to public records in electronic format. The agency may require that the requester enter into a contract, license, or other agreement with the agency, and may charge fees. KRS 61.874(6). The fees cannot exceed the cost of physical connection to the system and the reasonable cost of computer time access charges. The following factors are additional factors an agency should consider:

- Public agencies may use a preprinted request form but cannot require use of the form or demand more information on the form than the statute allows (requester's name printed legibly, signature, description of records).
- A public agency's three-day response time begins to run on the first business day after the request is received.
- Denials based on an unreasonable burden to the agency or a belief that requests are intended to disrupt its essential functions must be supported by clear and convincing evidence; for example, the number of records requested, the estimated amount of time and expense to the agency to fulfill the request, and the duplicative nature of the requests.

- An agency may impose copying fees greater than ten cents per page only if a specific statute authorizes the agency to do so or the agency can prove that its actual copying costs are greater than ten cents per page. Friend v. Rees, 696 S.W.2d 325 (Ky. App. 1985)
- No fee may be imposed for inspecting public records. The fee is only associated with the costs for copying or staff time in the case of a commercial-use request.

What records are exempt from public inspection?

The Open Records Act permits a public agency to withhold certain records from a requester unless the requester obtains a court order directing their release. Under KRS 61.878(1), the following records may be exempt:

- (a) records containing information of a personal nature if disclosure would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.
- (b) records confidentially disclosed to an agency and compiled and maintained for scientific research.
- (c) records confidentially disclosed to an agency or required by the agency to be disclosed to it which are generally recognized as confidential or proprietary and which if disclosed would permit an unfair commercial advantage to competitors, including records which are compiled and maintained in conjunction with an application for or the administration of a loan or grant; the application for or the administration of assessments, incentives, inducements, or tax credits; or the regulation of a commercial enterprise.
- (d) records pertaining to a prospective location of a business or industry where no previous public disclosure has been made of the business' or industry's interest in locating in, relocating within or expanding within the Commonwealth.
- (e) records developed by an agency in conjunction with the regulation or supervision of financial institutions which reveal the agency's internal examining or audit criteria.
- (f) real estate appraisals, engineering or feasibility estimates, and evaluations made by or for a public agency, in the course of acquiring property, until all of the property has been acquired.
- (g) test questions, scoring keys, and other examination data used to administer a licensing examination, examination for employment, or academic examination before the exam is given or if it is to be given again.

- (h) records of law enforcement agencies or agencies involved in administrative adjudication investigating statutory or regulatory violations if disclosure of the records would harm the agency by premature release (such records may be inspected after enforcement action is completed or a decision is made to take no action, unless they were compiled and maintained by a county or Commonwealth's attorney or unless another exemption applies).
- (i) preliminary drafts, notes, correspondence with private individuals, other than correspondence which is intended to give notice of final action of a public agency.
- (j) preliminary recommendations, and preliminary memoranda in which opinions are expressed or policies formulated or recommended.
- (k) public records that are prohibited from disclosure by federal law or regulation.
- (l) public records that are prohibited from disclosure by Kentucky statutes.
- (m) records the disclosure of which would have a reasonable likelihood of threatening the public safety by exposing a vulnerability in preventing, protecting against, mitigating, or responding to a terrorist act, as defined in the exemption, and limited to eight precisely described categories of records.
- (n) records having historic, literary, artistic, or commemorative value that are accepted by the archivist of a public university, museum, or government depository from a donor or depositor other than a public agency if nondisclosure is requested in writing by the donor or depositor.
- (o) records of a procurement process under KRS Chapter 45A or Chapter 56. This exemption shall not apply after a contract is awarded; or the procurement process is canceled without award of a contract and there is a determination that the contract will not be resolicited.
- (p) Communications of a purely personal nature unrelated to any governmental function.

Under KRS 61.880(1), a public agency denying a request to inspect records under one of the above exemptions is required to specifically cite the applicable exemption and provide a brief explanation as to how the exemption applies to the specific records. If a request seeks different categories of records, and different exemption apply to different categories, the public agency must explain how each exemption applies to each category. For example, a public agency response that simply states, “Your request has been denied under the privacy exemption in KRS 61.878(1)(a) and the records are preliminary under KRS 61.878(1)(i) and (j),” without more, would be inadequate. The public agency must specify how a person’s privacy interests are implicated, or why the record is preliminary.

Additional factors to consider when a public agency denies a request as exempt under KRS 61.878(1)

- If an agency relies on the exemption in KRS 61.878(1)(k) or (l), which exempt records required to be confidential under federal or state law, the agency must also cite the specific federal or state law requiring that the record remain confidential.
- The exemptions are “a shield and not a shackle” and an agency may elect to release records that are otherwise exempt except for records made confidential by federal or state law; an agency should also exercise caution before releasing records protected by the privacy exemption.
- A public agency employee is entitled to inspect any record that “relates” to him or her, even if the record is otherwise exempt, unless the requested record is part of an ongoing criminal or administrative investigation by the agency, the requested record is an examination, or the requested record is a record made confidential by federal or state law. KRS 61.878(3).
- Public agencies are encouraged to share otherwise exempt public records with other public agencies if the sharing of the records serves a “legitimate governmental need.” KRS 61.878(5).
- A public agency cannot withhold a public record that contains both exempt and nonexempt information, but must mask or redact the exempt portion of the record and release the nonexempt portion of the record. KRS 61.878(4). As technology advances and agencies upgrade their records management systems, they are advised to consider their duty to separate exempt from non-exempt material when responding to open records requests. Foresight may save the agency considerable time in responding to open records requests.
- Although Commonwealth’s and county attorneys’ litigation records are permanently exempt from public inspection, Commonwealth’s and county attorneys are not relieved of their duty to respond to an open records request for those records, and cannot deny access to other nonexempt records of their offices (for example, contracts, payroll records, time sheets, travel vouchers).

What is the role of the Attorney General?

If a public agency denies a request for public records, the requester may file an appeal with the Attorney General for review of the agency's actions. The appeal consists of a letter describing the circumstances of the denial, a copy of the written request, and a copy of the agency's written denial, if the agency issued a denial. KRS 61.880(2). Unless the requester is an inmate confined in a jail or correctional facility, and he or she is aggrieved by a denial issued by the Kentucky Department of Corrections, KRS 197.025(3), the requester may bypass the Attorney General's Office and file an appeal in circuit court. KRS 61.882(2).

The Attorney General may request additional documentation from the agency, and may, in certain circumstances, also request a copy of the records in dispute. KRS 61.880(2)(c). The Attorney General will not, however, disclose those records.

The Attorney General will review the appeal and issue a decision stating whether the agency violated the Open Records Act. A public agency carries the burden of proof in sustaining its actions under the Act. KRS 61.880(2)(c). On the day the Attorney General issues the decision, the Attorney General will mail a copy to the agency and a copy to the person who requested the disputed records. The decision will be issued in twenty business days. This deadline may be extended an additional thirty business days under KRS 61.880(2)(b).

Both the requester and the agency may appeal the Attorney General's decision to the circuit court of the county where the agency has its principal place of business or where the record is maintained. KRS 61.880(5). The Attorney General shall be notified of any circuit court action, but shall not be named as a party in the action.

If an appeal is not filed within thirty days, the Attorney General's decision has the force and effect of law and can be enforced in circuit court. KRS 61.880(5)(b). If the requester prevails against an agency in circuit court, he or she may be awarded costs, including reasonable attorney fees, if the court finds that the records were willfully withheld. KRS 61.882(5). The court may also award the requester up to $25 for each day that the requester was denied the right to inspect the records. Under KRS 61.991, a public agency official may face criminal penalties for willfully concealing or destroying records with the intent to violate the Act. Officials who fail to produce records after entry of final judgment directing that records be produced may be found guilty of contempt.

Additional factors regarding the Attorney General's role

- The Attorney General will not consider an appeal that does not include a copy of the written request and the written denial, if the agency issued a denial. KRS 61.880(2)(a).
- Upon receipt of an open records appeal, the Attorney General will issue notification of the appeal and provide a copy of the appeal to the public agency against which the appeal was filed. The agency may respond in writing to the Attorney General; the agency must send a copy of its response to the individual who filed the appeal.
- Because the Open Records Act provides for judicial review of the issues raised in an appeal, the Attorney General will not reconsider an open records decision. 40 KAR 1:030 § 4.
- The Attorney General will consider an appeal moot, and decline to issue a decision, if the requested records are released to the requester after his or her appeal is filed but before an open records decision is rendered. 40 KAR 1:030 § 6. However, if the agency only partially produces requested records, by redacting or withholding some records as exempt under KRS 61.878(1), the appeal will not be considered moot.
- The Attorney General will consider an appeal based on the allegation that the public agency “subverted the intent of the Act short of denial of inspection,” which may include appeals based on the imposition of excessive copying fees.
- Since 1992, open records decisions have been designated ORDs rather than OAGs because they are legally binding on the parties if not appealed.
- Because the public agency has the burden of proof to sustain its response under the Act, the courts have directed that the agency “provide particular and detailed information in response to a request for documents,” and not just a “brief explanation.” Although an agency may be able to meet its burden of proof on appeal, an initial response to the requester that fails to discharge the agency’s duty is still grounds for finding a violation of the Open Records Act.
- The Attorney General’s role in open records appeals is to issue a decision stating whether the public agency violated the Open Records Act. The Attorney General will not answer ancillary questions of law unrelated to the provisions of KRS 61.870 to KRS 61.884.

- The Attorney General does not enforce his decision by imposing penalties, nor may the Attorney General compel an agency to provide the requested records to the requester.
- A public agency that is dissatisfied with a decision must appeal the decision within thirty days. If the public agency fails to appeal the decision, the decision has the force and effect of law, the agency is legally bound by the decision, and the circuit court must enforce it.

The Open Meetings Act

In 1974, the General Assembly enacted the Open Meetings Act, KRS 61.800 to KRS 61.850, which establishes a right of access to public meetings. The General Assembly recognized that the formation of public policy is public business and should not be conducted in secret. KRS 61.800. The Act requires that all meetings of a quorum of the members of a public agency where public business is discussed, or action is taken, must occur in meetings open to the public, unless an exemption applies. KRS 61.810(1). Members of the public may attend any public meeting and a public agency may not require an individual to identify himself or herself to attend a public meeting. KRS 61.840. The courts have stated that the Open Meetings Act must be “interpreted most favorably to the public” since “failure to comply with the strict letter of the law in conducting meetings violates the public good.”

What is a public meeting and what is a public agency?

The Open Meetings Act applies to all meetings held by state and local government agencies. Under KRS 61.805(2), the agencies covered by the Act include:

- state and local government boards, commissions, and authorities;
- state and local legislative boards, commissions, and committees;
- county and city governing bodies, councils, school district boards, special district boards, and municipal corporations;
- state and local government agencies, including policy making boards of educational institutions, that are created by state or local statute or other legislative act;
- bodies created by state or local statute or legislative act in the legislative or executive branch of government;
- an entity where the majority of its governing body is appointed by a public agency or state or local officer;
- any boards, commissions, committees, subcommittees, advisory committees, or ad hoc committees, which are established, created, and controlled by a public agency; and
- interagency bodies of two or more public agencies.

Subject to fourteen exemptions, all gatherings of a quorum of the members of a public agency at which public business is discussed or action is taken are public meetings and must be open to the public, regardless of where they are held, and whether they are regular or special or informational or casual gatherings held in anticipation of a regular or special meeting. KRS 61.805(1); KRS 61.810(1).

Additional factors to consider regarding what constitutes a “public agency”

- The definition of “public agency” under the Open Meetings Act is narrower than the definition of “public agency” under the Open Records Act and does not include “state and local government officers” and bodies that receive “at least 25% of their funds from state or local authority funds;” this means, for example, that the mayor of a city is a public agency for open records purposes but not for open meetings purposes.
- A committee of a public agency, even if its function is purely advisory, is a public agency for open meetings purposes and a quorum of its members is calculated on the basis of the committee’s membership and not the membership of the public agency that created it (the city commission, consisting of five members, creates a budget committee, consisting of three members—a quorum of the commission exists if three members are present and a quorum of the committee exists if two members are present); the committee must comply with all requirements of the Act.

What is public business?

The Open Meetings Act does not apply every time a quorum of a public agency gathers in the same place. The Open Meetings Act applies when a quorum of public agency members discuss public business or when an agency takes action. KRS 61.810(1). As explained by the Kentucky Supreme Court, “Public business is not simply any discussion between two officials of the agency. Public business is the discussion of the various alternatives to a given issue about which the [agency] has the option to take action.” Yeoman v. Com., Health Policy Bd., 983 S.W.2d 459, 474 (Ky. 1998).

Under this standard, the Attorney General has consistently held that discussions concerning meeting administration, such as when and where a special meeting will take place, or what will appear on the agenda, are not “discussions of the various alternatives to a given issue,” and such discussions are not subject to the requirements of the Open Meetings Act so long as the discussion remains administrative and not substantive. On the other hand, an agency cannot ignore the requirements of the Open Meetings Act when discussing public business simply because no action was taken following the discussion.

What are the general requirements of the Open Meetings Act?

Time and place of meetings. All meetings of public agencies, and committees or subcommittees thereof, must be held at specified times and places that are convenient to the public. KRS 61.820(1). Public agencies must evaluate space requirements, seating capacity, and acoustics in considering locations for public meetings to ensure, insofar as feasible, meeting room conditions that allow effective public observation. Public agencies should provide for a schedule of regular meetings by ordinance, order, resolution, bylaws, or by other means. This schedule of regular meetings must be made available to the public. KRS 61.820(2).

Minutes of meetings. Public agencies must keep minutes of action taken at every meeting that set forth an accurate record of votes and actions taken. These minutes must be open for inspection by the public no later than the conclusion of the agency's next public meeting. KRS 61.835. Calling a meeting to order, and a vote to adjourn, are "actions taken" within the meaning of KRS 61.835. Therefore, even if a meeting is called only to discuss public business, and no final action is taken, the minutes should reflect a call to order and adjournment.

Public attendance at meetings. To the extent possible, meeting room conditions should allow for effective public observation of the meetings. No person attending the meeting can be required to identify himself or herself in order to attend a meeting. The agency cannot place conditions on attendance of the public at a meeting other than the conditions required to maintain order. KRS 61.840. Since the General Assembly has not established procedural rules for the conduct of meetings and citizen participation, each agency must adopt its own rules of procedure, but those rules may not conflict with the Open Meetings Act.

News media coverage. Public agencies must permit news media coverage, including recording and broadcasting. KRS 61.840.

Requirements for holding special meetings. All meetings that are not regularly scheduled meetings are special meetings, and are subject to the following requirements under KRS 61.823:

Who may call a special meeting? The presiding officer or a majority of the members of the public agency may call a special meeting. KRS 61.823(2).

What are the notice and contents of notice requirements? The public agency must provide written notice of the special meeting consisting of the date, time, and place of the special meeting and the agenda. Discussion and actions at the meeting must be limited to the items on the agenda. KRS 61.823(3).

As soon as possible, written notice must be personally delivered, transmitted by facsimile, or mailed to every member of the agency and each media organization that files a written request to receive notice of special meetings. Notice must be provided at least twenty-four hours before the special meeting. KRS 61.823(4)(a).

Written notice of special meetings may be transmitted by email to public agency members and media organizations that have filed a written request with the public agency indicating a preference to receive email notification. The written request must include the email address of the agency member or media organization. KRS 61.823(4)(b).

As soon as possible, written notice must also be posted in a conspicuous place in the building where the special meeting will take place and in a conspicuous place in the building where the agency has its headquarters. Notice must be posted at least twenty-four hours before the special meeting. KRS 61.823(4)(c).

In the case of an emergency that prevents the public agency from complying with these requirements, the agency must make a reasonable effort to notify the members of the agency, media organizations that have filed a written request to be notified, and the public of the emergency meeting. KRS 61.823(5). At the beginning of the emergency meeting, the person chairing the meeting must describe for the record the emergency that prevented compliance with the notice provisions, and these comments should be recorded in the minutes. Discussions and actions at the emergency meeting must be limited to the emergency for which the meeting was called.

What are video teleconferences? Subject to the provisions of KRS 61.826, an agency's meetings may be conducted by video teleconference. A video teleconference is a "meeting occurring in two (2) or more locations where individuals can see and hear each other by means of video and audio equipment." KRS 61.805(5). Notice of a video teleconference shall clearly state the meeting will be conducted via video teleconference and it shall precisely identify a primary location where all members can be seen and heard, and where the public may attend. KRS 61.826(2). Any interruption in the video or audio broadcast shall result in immediate suspension of the meeting until the broadcast is restored. KRS 61.826(4). Meetings cannot be conducted via telephone conference, because under KRS 61.826, all members must be both seen and heard.

Additional factors to consider when conducting meetings

- The courts have stated that the Open Meetings Act does not require agencies to conduct business “only in the most convenient locations at the most convenient times.” The Act is “designed to prevent government bodies from conducting [their] business at such inconvenient times or locations as to effectively render public knowledge or participation impossible, not to require agencies to seek out the most convenient time or location.” Knox Cty. v. Hammons, 129 S.W.3d 839 (Ky. 2004).
- Agencies are not required to take minutes in closed sessions.
- If the public agency directs that an audio or video recording of its meeting be made, and the recording is created with agency equipment at agency expense, the recording of the meeting is a public record upon creation and must be made available for inspection within three business days of an open records request.
- The right of the public to attend a public meeting under the Open Meetings Act does not include the right to participate in the meeting and address the members of the agency; it is a statutory right “to observe with their eyes and ears what transpires at those meetings.”
- A member of the public, as well as the media, must be permitted to record a meeting so long as it does not disrupt the meeting.
- The notice of a special meeting must include an agenda that contains specific agenda topics (“new business,” “old business,” “open to floor,” are not acceptable), and the date, time, and place of the meeting. Because an agenda is not statutorily required for regular meetings, discussions at a regular meeting are not restricted to agenda topics if an agenda is prepared.
- Although the public agency can post notice of the special meeting on the agency website, web notice of the meeting does not satisfy the statutory requirement and must be in addition to, rather than in lieu of, delivery of the notice by U.S. mail, facsimile, in person, or by email, where requested, and physical posting of the notice in a conspicuous place.
- The public agency is not obligated to provide notice to “interested” individuals who have requested notice of special meetings, only to the parties identified in the statute.
- The Attorney General has rarely found that conditions were sufficiently grave to justify a public agency’s decision to call an emergency meeting.

What subjects may be discussed in a closed session?

The Open Meetings Act permits a public agency to discuss certain subjects in a closed or executive meeting if notice is given in the regular meeting of the general nature of the business to be discussed, the reason for the closed session, and the specific provision authorizing the closed session. KRS 61.815(1)(a). A closed session may be held only after a motion is made and carried in open session, and no final action may be taken in closed session. KRS 61.815(1)(b) and (c). The agency is prohibited from discussing matters unrelated to the purpose for entering closed session while in closed session. KRS 61.815(1)(d). The exceptions to the Open Meetings Act are found at KRS 61.810(1) and include:

- (a) Deliberations of the Kentucky Parole Board;
- (b) Deliberations on the future acquisition or sale of real property by a public agency; when publicity would be likely to affect the value of the property;
- (c) Discussions of proposed or pending litigation involving a public agency;
- (d) Grand or petit jury sessions;
- (e) Collective bargaining negotiations between public employers and their employees;
- (f) Discussions or hearings that might lead to the appointment, dismissal, or discipline of an individual employee, member, or student. However, general personnel matters may not be discussed in private;
- (g) Discussions between a public agency and a representative of a business entity and discussions concerning a specific proposal, if open discussions would jeopardize the siting, retention, expansion, or upgrading of the business;
- (h) State and local cabinet meetings and executive cabinet meetings;
- (i) Committees of the General Assembly other than standing committees;
- (j) Deliberations of judicial or quasi-judicial bodies involving individual adjudications or appointments. This does not include meetings of planning commissions, zoning commissions, or boards of adjustment;
- (k) Meetings which federal or state law specifically require to be conducted in privacy;
- (l) Meetings which the Constitution provides shall be held in secret;

- (m) Portions of meetings devoted to a discussion of a specific public record exempted from disclosure under KRS 61.878(1)(m); and
- (n) Meetings of any selection committee, evaluation committee, or other similar group established under KRS Chapter 45A or 56 to select a successful bidder for award of a state contract.

The Open Meetings Act prohibits any series of less than quorum meetings, where the members attending one or more of the meetings collectively constitute at least a quorum of the members of the agency, if the meetings are held “for the purpose of avoiding the requirements” of the Act. KRS 61.810(2). Therefore, an agency violates KRS 61.810(2) when it intentionally seeks to subvert the Act. This prohibition does not restrict discussions between individual members if the purpose of the discussion is to educate the members on specific issues.

Additional considerations for entering closed session

- The courts have stated that public agencies must give “specific and complete notification in the open meeting of any and all topics which are to be discussed during the closed meeting.” The Attorney General has stated that “notification must include both a statement of the exception authorizing the closed session and a description of the business to be discussed couched in sufficiently specific terms to enable the public to assess the propriety of the agency’s actions.”
- The courts have stated that the exception for proposed or pending litigation applies to “matters inherent to litigation, such as preparation, strategy, or tactics, but not just when an attorney is present.”
- Before going into closed session to discuss a personnel issue under KRS 61.810(1)(f), an agency must state whether the discussion will relate to either the appointment of, the dismissal of, or the discipline of an individual employee, member, or student, but the agency is not required to identify the individual by name.
- The Act was amended in the 2018 General Session to create a new exemption for “meetings of any selection committee, evaluation committee, or other similar group established under KRS Chapter 45A or 56 to select a successful bidder for award of a state contract.”

What is the role of the Attorney General?

If a person believes that a public agency has violated the Open Meetings Act, he or she shall first submit a written complaint to the presiding officer of the agency. The complaint must state the circumstances of the violation and what the agency should do to correct it. KRS 61.846(1).

Within three business days of receipt of the complaint, the public agency shall decide whether to correct the violation and notify the complaining party of its decision in writing. KRS 61.846(1). If the agency believes that no violation has occurred and rejects the proposed remedy, it must issue a written response that cites the statute authorizing its actions and briefly explain how the statute applies.

The complaining party may appeal to the Attorney General for review of the agency's action within sixty days of receipt of the agency's response. KRS 61.846(2). The appeal shall include a copy of the written complaint and a copy of the agency's response, if the agency issued a denial. The Attorney General will review the appeal and issue a decision stating whether the agency violated the Open Meetings Act within ten business days. KRS 61.846(2). Both the complaining party and the agency will receive a copy of the decision. Both may appeal the Attorney General's decision to the circuit court of the county where the public agency has its principal place of business or where the violation occurred. KRS 61.848. If an appeal is not filed within thirty days, the Attorney General's decision has the force and effect of law and can be enforced in circuit court. KRS 61.848(4)(b).

If the complaining party prevails against an agency in circuit court, he or she may be awarded costs, including attorney fees, if the court finds that the violation was willful. KRS 61.848(6). The court may also award the complaining party up to $100 for each violation. Additionally, the court may void the action taken by the agency if such action was taken during a meeting that failed to substantially comply with certain requirements of the Act. KRS 61.848(5).

Additional factors concerning appeals to the Attorney General

- A complainant must appeal a public agency's denial of, or failure to respond to, his or her open meetings complaint within sixty days, and if he or she does not do so the appeal is time-barred. There is no similar statutory limitation on bringing an open records appeal.
- Upon receipt of an open meetings appeal, the Attorney General will issue notification of the appeal, and a copy of the appeal, to the public agency against which the appeal was filed, and the agency may respond in writing to the Attorney General. The agency must send a copy of its response to the individual who filed the appeal.

- The Attorney General will not consider an appeal that does not include a copy of the written complaint and a copy of the agency's response, if the agency issued a response.
- Because the Open Meetings Act provides for judicial review of the issues raised in an appeal, the Attorney General will not reconsider an open meetings decision.
- The Attorney General's role in an open meetings appeal is to issue a decision stating whether the public agency violated the Open Meetings Act; the Attorney General cannot comment on, or direct the implementation of, proposed remedial measures. Nor can he enforce his decision by imposing penalties.

Special Considerations during the State of Emergency

Until this point, this brochure provided guidance on the Open Records Act and Open Meetings Act during normal circumstances. In response to the public health emergency caused by the novel coronavirus, however, the General Assembly passed Senate Bill 150 (“SB 150”), which altered certain requirements under the Open Records Act and Open Meetings Act during the declared state of emergency. Because SB 150 contained an emergency clause, its provisions became effective upon the Governor’s signature on March 30, 2020.

SB 150 is the controlling authority for the duration of the state of emergency. The following rules apply to the Open Records Act and Open Meetings Act, respectfully.

The Open Records Act during the state of emergency

Agency Response Time Extended. Under SB 150 § 1(8)(a), an agency shall respond to a request to inspect or receive copies of public records within ten days of receipt of the request. Importantly, SB 150 does not contain the same language as KRS 61.880(1), which excludes Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays from the response time calculation. As such, a public agency has ten calendar days from the date of receipt to respond to an open records request.

On-site public inspection delayed. Ordinarily an agency may not prohibit a person from conducting an on-site inspection of public records under KRS 61.872(1). Under SB 150 § 1(8)(a), however, a public agency “may delay on-site inspection during the pendency of the state of emergency.”

SB 150 did not otherwise alter the Open Records Act. Therefore, with the exception of these two provisions, an agency should continue to apply the statutory requirements and may rely on the guidance provided in pages 1 through 15 of this resource.

The Open Meetings Act during the state of emergency

Video or teleconference meetings. SB 150 does not prohibit in-person meetings. Rather, SB 150 § 1(8)(b) states that a public agency “may conduct any meeting, including its regular meeting, by live audio or live video teleconference during the period of the state of emergency.” Ordinarily, a public agency must use video teleconferencing technology so that members can be both seen and heard. However, SB 150 dispenses with the video requirement “if the public agency does not have the technological capacity or availability to provide for a live video teleconference.” SB 150 § 1(8)(b)2.b. In that case, a public agency may conduct an open meeting using audio teleconferencing. SB 150 § 1(8)(b).

Public attendance. If a public agency elects to conduct its meeting using video or audio teleconference, the agency shall provide public notice that the meeting will be conducted via video or audio teleconference. The notice shall also provide specific information on how any member of the public or media may access the meeting. A public agency may provide a publicly available website in the notice and must ensure that the meeting is broadcast on that website. However, if a public agency does not conduct its meeting using video or audio teleconferencing technology, and all members of the public agency attend in-person, the public agency may not prohibit in-person public attendance. Instead, the public agency may only limit in-person public attendance to the extent necessary to ensure social distancing requirements. See 20-OMD-092.

Re: Open Records Appeal

Dear Attorney General Cameron:

I am appealing the refusal of the city clerk of Anytown, Kentucky, to allow me to inspect records in his possession. A copy of my written request is attached. A copy of the clerk's response denying my request is also attached.

The clerk claims that the records are not open records because they are preliminary recommendations. I do not agree because the records I request to inspect are final contracts between the city and ABC Inc.

Dear Mr. Jones:

Because you are the presiding officer at city council meetings, I am submitting to you a complaint concerning an action that took place at the city council meeting held on January 30, 2020. At that meeting, the council voted to go into a closed or executive session to discuss general personnel matters

The council cannot legally go into a closed or executive session to discuss general personnel matters. I am requesting that the council discuss at a future meeting, in an open and public session, those matters that were discussed at the improperly called closed session on January 30, 2020. Any action taken as a result of the improperly called session should be declared null and void.

Sincerely,

John Q. Citizen

Dear Mr. Citizen:

In your recent letter to the city you stated that the city council, at its meeting held on January 30, 2020, went into an executive or closed session to discuss general personnel matters.

While the city recognizes that it cannot discuss general personnel matters in a closed or executive session, the city is permitted, pursuant to KRS 61.810(1)(f), to go into a closed session to discuss matters that might lead to the appointment of an individual employee.

The office of director of the streets and parks department is currently vacant, and two persons have applied for the position. The matters discussed by the council during the closed session on January 30, 2016, involved the council's evaluations of the two applicants for that office and such matters may be discussed at a closed session.

Re: Open Meetings Appeal

Dear Attorney General Cameron:

I am appealing the denial of my complaint by the mayor of Anytown, Kentucky, concerning the closing of a council meeting held on January 30, 2020, at which the council discussed general personnel matters.

I am enclosing a copy of my complaint to the mayor and a copy of the mayor's denial of my complaint. The mayor maintains that the session of the council meeting in question may be closed to the public because personnel matters were discussed. In my opinion, the closing of such a session to the public is a violation of KRS 61.810(1)(f).
