RE: Partial Hospitalization Place of Service after Public Health Emergency

During the Public Health Emergency (PHE), hospitals could furnish and bill for certain partial hospitalization services including individual psychotherapy, patient education, and group psychotherapy that were delivered in temporary expansion locations, including patients' homes, to ensure access to necessary services, maintain continuity of care and for purposes of infection control.

The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services has indicated that these services are no longer able to be reimbursed when provided in the patient's home. Effective immediately, Medicaid will not reimburse for these services if delivered in the patient's home.

Sincerely,

Justin Dearing
